

Town Roadwork Expected to Start at Week-End

Hauling Gravel; Estimated Cost $4,600; Home Labor.

The town's annual road program is expected to get underway this week end. All that holds up work at the present time is the asphalt and it is expected to arrive on Friday morning, according to Joe D'Appolonia, who is charge of his father's business during the latter's absence.

Four hundred tons of crushed rock from the lime kiln at Crow's Nest Lake is being distributed at various points about town and 12,000 gallons of H. C. 3 asphalt has been ordered.

Before granting the contract at an estimated cost of $4,600, the council, in their deliberations, laid great stress on the point that should Contractor D'Appolonia require other unskilled labor than his regular crew, it would be recognized between all concerned that he employ only Coleman men.

All streets at present hard-surfaced will receive a seal coat within the next few weeks. The town's hard-surfaced roads now total three and a third miles in length, an asset that Coleman citizens can well be proud of, as no other town of its size in southern Alberta can run it even a close second.

Newly Ordained Minister Visited Coleman

Father A. J. McDonald, recently ordained at Hamilton, Ontario, had charge of the service at Holy Ghost church on Sunday last in the absence of Father J. T. Dunbar.

He is the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McDonald, Second street, and resided with them during his six days' visit in Coleman. Mr. and Mrs. McDonald motored to Hamilton a few weeks ago to witness his ordination on June 3. He conducted his first solemn high mass at Hamilton.

He came to Coleman after a brief visit to Nova Scotia, where he was born and where some of his relatives still reside.

Sunday's service at Holy Ghost church was his second since being ordained. He left on Tuesday's train for Victoria, where he expects to receive a permanent assignment.

During his stay in Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. McDonald took the opportunity of showing him the beauties of the Rockies, taking him over the Logan Pass on Monday, a trip that he will long remember for its scenic beauty.

A. A. PRUETT IN VANCOUVER HOSPITAL

Mr. A. A. Pruett started out two weeks ago with his daughter, Nellie, to enjoy a few weeks vacation at Vancouver. At the present time the trip is anything but enjoyable, as he lies on a bed in one of the city's hospitals. Mr. Pruett was taken ill by a combination of ailments necessitating him being taken to hospital. A telephone call from Coleman to Vancouver this week reveals that his illness is not serious.

Harry Antel Laids to Rest on Sunday

Large Attendance of Friends; Elks' Lodge and Citizens' Band Attend.

Many friends from the Pass towns attended the funeral of Harry Antel on Sunday afternoon, services being held at the home of deceased's brother, William Antel, on Fifth street. Rev. Axton, rural dean of Christ Church, Macleod, conducted the funeral services at the home, and also gave a short service at the graveside.

Members of the Elks' lodge, of which deceased had been an active member, attended in a body. Acting chaplain, Fred Founds, conducted the lodge's burial rites at the graveside and paid tribute to the character of their departed brother.

Coleman Citizens' Band led the funeral procession to Coleman Union cemetery, where interment was made. Pallbearers were old friends of the late Mr. Antel, and included Mayor Pattinson, H. C. McBurney, Reginald Jones, J. Plante, Tom Higginbotham and J. A. McDonald.

Relatives attending from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. Fraser McLeod and family, of Calgary, and Mrs. J. Larrigan, of C. Ellem, Wash.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish sincerely to thank friends for their kind expressions of sympathy and for the beautiful floral offerings and letters of sympathy; also those who loaned cars and to the doctors and nurses of Coleman hospital, in our recent bereavement in losing our dear husband and father, Harry Antel. Also to the doctors and staff of Coleman hospital.

Provincial Baseball Play-offs Here Sunday

Hillspiring Will Oppose Pucketers; First Round Intermediate Play-Offs. Angelos' Pucketers will face Hillspiring in the first game of a best two-out-of-three-game series in the provincial intermediate baseball play-offs. The game is scheduled for the local ball park on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Pucketers will be strengthened with the addition of four players from other Pass teams. Tom Krall, husky pitcher for Michel-Natal Buffaloes, and Eddie Seaman, Johnny Elick and young Beranek, all of Hillcrest, have signed with the locals. Angelos still in doubt as to his starting line-up.

Pete Brown, who is vacationing at Medicine Hat, is expected to be the only player missing from the line-up.

BOB EMMERSON COMPETED AT HIGHLAND GAMES

Bob Emmerson proved to be Coleman's lone entry at the Highland Games held at Calgary on Saturday last. It had been expected that Harry Thomas would also compete.

Taking part in the pole vault and running high jump, Bob was successful in placing in both events. In the pole vault he came second, losing out to the winner, who cleared the bar at 10 feet 5 inches. He placed third in the running high jump, the winner's leap being 5 feet 9 inches.

PRIZE DRAWING

John Bielish Fell Under Train---Leg Amputated

Brought to Coleman Hospital Tuesday Afternoon; Resting Comfortably.

A tragic accident on Friday morning on the C.P.R. tracks at Michel caused the amputation of the right leg below the knee of John Bielish, 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bielish, of East Coleman.

According to a Michel despatch, Bielish jumped off the passenger train before it came to a stop, falling between the wheels, and his right leg was injured so seriously that it had to be amputated.

Bielish had only returned from the Castle River stampede the night previously and in company with Paul Zimka, of Blairmore, had boarded the Friday morning's passenger train for Cranbrook. Being on a week's holiday from his employment as night porter at Coleman hotel, it is anticipated he intended to spend the week end at Cranbrook.

Immediately upon identification of the injured man, Joe Lipovski, brother-in-law, was sent for and brought to Michel. Later the young man's parents were notified.

On Tuesday afternoon Coleman Miners' new ambulance was sent to Michel hospital and brought the injured man to the local hospital. He is now resting comfortably. This was the ambulance's first assignment.

Sigmundson and Drummond Sign With Canadians

Defenceman and Right Winger of Red Lake Devils Send Registration Cards.

A good stroke of business was concluded during the week end, when the registration cards bearing the names of Wally Sigmundson, defenceman, and Johnny Drummond, right winger, were received by Frank Abousaff, president of Canadians.

These boys have been highly recommended to the local executive, and the latter have been endeavoring for a number of weeks to secure their names to registration cards. Now that the work is completed, smiles adorn the faces of the various officials.

Outside of the fact that they played starring roles for the Red Lake Devils in Manitoba, little is known regarding their height and weight. Both boys are said to be in their early twenties. They will not report until fall.

The addition of these two players brings the team's new players to five. Only Barney, Sigmundson and Drummond are recognized as imports. Dunne, a junior last year, and Bud Wolfe, who was not in organized hockey last year, are not imports.

Good printing creates a favorable impression—that's why Journal and Bulletin ads count.

Radical Changes at Grand Union Contemplated

Will Renovate Pool Room and Snowdon's Store.

Plans are under way to radically change the present beer parlor and dining room of the Grand Union and also the pool room, leased by Mr. Albert Sapota, and the store which will be vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Snowdon this week.

According to information received by The Journal, officials of the Calgary Brewery are to arrive here shortly to inspect the plans before awarding the contract for the renovation. Mr. Frost being also holding up plans at Vancouver is also holding up plans.

The present plan calls for eliminating the partition between Snowdon's store and the pool room. The pool room equipment will be moved over to absorb the former store's space. Another partition will be erected to divide the beer room and a restaurant which is to be built. The restaurant will have an entrance from the hotel for the convenience of hotel guests, as well as an entrance from the front street.

In the hotel itself, the wall separating the beer room from the dining room will be replaced with a wide arch and the dining room converted into a refreshment room where ladies and their escorts will be served. The dining room will be eliminated altogether, the restaurant taking its place.

B. of T. Advised on Highway Surfacing

Following the notification to Mr. Short last week by Rev. Roy C. Taylor, M.L.A., that the Carbondale hill would be surfaced, the following letter was received by H. T. Halliwell, president of Coleman Board of Trade: Edmonton, July 27, 1939.

Dear Sir:

Your letter of July 25th, addressed to the Minister, re surfacing short piece west of Coleman, has been referred to me for attention.

I have to advise that Mr. Taylor, M.L.A., was in last week and it was decided to surface past the school and short distance west of Coleman.

Yours faithfully,

N. W. MACPHERSON, Highway Commissioner.

PRELIMINARY HEARING AT PINCHER CREEK ON ROAD ACCIDENT LAST MAY

Arising out of the road accident near Pincher Creek last May, in which Frederick G. Morris was fatally injured when the motor cycle on which he was riding was in collision with a car driven by Harry Gate on the Red Trail highway, a preliminary hearing was held at Pincher Creek on Friday last.

The case for the Crown is being conducted by the R.C.M.P., in charge of Corporal Naylor, of Pincher Creek. R. F. Barnes is conducting the defence for Mr. Gate, the defendant. A further hearing will be held at Pincher Creek on Aug. 10.

It is expected Mr. and Mrs. Hunter will remain in Coleman during the next two weeks to clean up certain business matters.

Mr. Yates is no stranger to Coleman, having worked for the Hunters for three years, leaving Coleman two years ago. He will carry on the business along the same efficient lines as did his predecessors.

NOVA SCOTIA'S PREMIER BOOSTS LIFE INSURANCE

In a recent address, the Hon. Angus L. Macdonald, premier of Nova Scotia, paid the following tribute to Life Insurance:

"When one reflects that the Life Insurance Companies in this country have assets which total more than two and one-half billions of dollars; that the policies in force amount to some six or seven billions; and that over a number three and one-half million Canadians among your policyholders, he will understand what an important part life insurance plays in the economic and social life of this Dominion. . . . In a country which believes in British traditions, it is one of the proudest of British traditions that is that of honest dealing between men, of fair representation, of the sanctity of the pledged word. . . ."

"The record of the Canadian life insurance companies which I hope stand forever as a solid rock of truth and honesty, an example and inspiration to all men in this country of goodwill and honor. . . ."

Japan Extends Move To Drive Britons Out Of North China

Shanghai.—Anglo-Japanese differences widened here as Japanese extended their move to drive Britons out of North China.

The anti-British campaign brought these developments during the week-end.

1. Britons reaching Tientsin from Tsinan in Shantung province said a committee had written all British nationals there warning their lives would not be safe after Aug. 10.
2. The Japanese press in Tientsin reported the anti-British committee in Tsangchow, Hopei province city 60 miles south of Tientsin, had ordered all British missionaries to leave.
3. In Peiping, police visited all Chinese shops and warned them to remove British goods from their shelves and thousands of new posters appeared with denunciations of British influence.

British officials in Shanghai were reported preparing a protest to the Japanese against their alleged encroachment on British territory in erecting barbed wire barricades on north Kiangs road, boundary between the British and Japanese defence sectors here.

Quiet was restored to the area after the Japanese opened gaps in the wires at street intersections. Thousands of Chinese had fled in terror with their possessions into the British zone and camped in the street alongside the barrier.

The trouble started when four Seaforth Highlanders in a military truck entered the Japanese defence sector to repair barbed wire. British said they were under the impression the territory was British.

Japanese forces quickly blocked off the alleyway in which the British were working by stretching barbed wire across the exit and held the Highlanders and their truck for 2½ hours as British officers negotiated with the Japanese for their release.

The Japanese in the meantime, working at top speed, strung three strands of wire along the length of north Kiangs road.

On seeing his Chinese living in the Japanese sector fled across the roadway to the British side in scenes reminiscent of the 1937 exodus into the settlement from Chapel when Japanese were attacking.

Daniel (Japan) said Japanese meanwhile reported Japanese military authorities in Peiping and Tientsin were "bluntly accusing Britons of practising flagrant double-diplomacy" in the Far East.

It said the military was determined to insist on British surrender of the currency questions being discussed in the Anglo-Japanese negotiations in Tokyo.

(In reported London quarters it was informed Japanese had demanded Great Britain support Japanese-backed currency in the British concession in Tientsin and hand over to the Japanese-dominated Peiping regime the silver belonging to the Chinese government which is held in concession banks.)

(The British ambassador to Tokyo was advised, it was said, to say the question involved important national issues and could not be discussed. It was reported that if Japan persisted in her demands Britain might be forced to break off the negotiations concerning their Tientsin difficulties.)

Extend Air Service

Support Movement For Line To Link North Battleford With Edmonton Saskatoon.—Representatives of Saskatoon, Edmonton, Lloydminster, North Battleford, Prince Albert, Moose Jaw and Regina unanimously endorsed a motion in support of extension of existing air services from North Battleford to Lloydminster and Edmonton, at a meeting here, and a committee of five was appointed to prepare a brief in support of the proposal. The brief will be forwarded to the transport board, which is already considering an application for the extension of the service.

Five Countries Invited London.—The inter-governmental committee for refugees invited five countries to send representatives to the conference on refugee problems which President Roosevelt has proposed be held at the White House early in September.

U.S. Terminates Treaty

Gives Notice To Japan To End Agreement Of 1911

Washington.—The United States served notice it was terminating its 1911 treaty of commerce and navigation with Japan, opening the way toward an embargo on the shipment of raw materials to that country.

Japanese Ambassador Kira Kira Horiuchi was handed a note informing him of the step.

The government's action came as a surprise, since the senate foreign relations committee discussing a resolution calling for the denunciation of the treaty postponed discussion on it until later.

Secretary Hull conferred with President Roosevelt, following talks with his far eastern advisers. The president approved, perhaps ordered, the action.

Six months must pass before the abrogation can go into effect. They will be up Jan. 26, 1940, at which time congress will be in session and can discuss an embargo on raw materials shipments to Japan.

The state department regarded the 1911 treaty as a legal obstacle in the way of a resolution by Senator Pittman (Dem., Nevada) calling for the embargo.

Most officials at the state department have looked askance at the application of an embargo to Japan, believing it might provoke retaliation from the Japanese both in Japan and in China.

New Settlers Welcomed

Sudetan Refugees Greeted In Saskatoon On Way To New Homes

Saskatoon.—"Peace, liberty and happiness" were wished 29 Sudetan German refugees here by Chief Harry Littlecrow of the Moose Wood reserve, Dundurn, who extended a welcome from the Sioux tribesmen to the settlers, who were en route to new homes in the St. Walburg district.

The newcomers were welcomed by the young men's section of the Saskatoon board of trade and during their two-hour stay in the city they were taken to the Saskatoon industrial exhibition to see exhibits.

In front of the grandstand facing the race track, Mayor Carl Niderost extended Saskatoon's welcome and exhibition officials added their words of greeting.

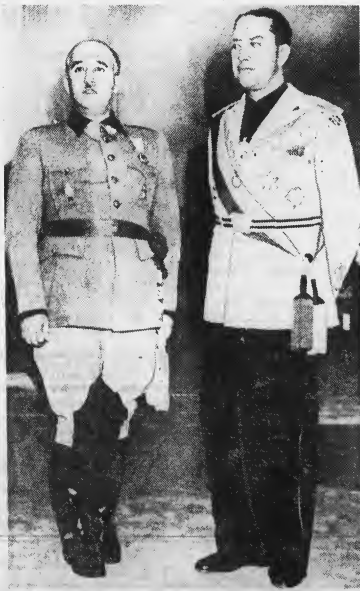

Prairie Route To Alaska

Request For Investigation Of Linking Alberta With Highway

Ottawa.—The United States government will be asked to consider extending the reference of the British Columbia-Alaska highway commission to include an investigation of the feasibility of running the highway through Alberta, Prime Minister King announced.

The request for an investigation of the possibility of linking Alberta with the proposed highway came from that province.

CIANO CALLS SPAIN "FASCIST"

In a speech made during a visit to Barcelona, where he is shown with General Franco, left, Count Galea, right, Italian Foreign Minister, was quoted as describing Spain and Italy as "two great Fascist nations". The Count is a son-in-law of Premier Benito Mussolini. Franco led his forces in victory in the recent Spanish civil war and now is virtual ruler of the country.

Danzig Defences

Put Police In Nazi Uniforms And Confiscate Jewish Business

Danzig.—It was estimated unofficially that Danzig is spending $2,500 a day on defence preparations. This expenditure is in addition to an estimated $130,000 spent on primary defence measures.

Nazis admit that 4,000 to 5,000 men have been put into police or Nazi uniforms within the last few weeks. Poles put the figure at 12,000 to 15,000.

A decree was published empowering the Danzig government to confiscate Jewish business and real estate or those concerns in which part of the capital is Jewish owned.

Ten Polish students were sentenced by the Danzig summary court to one month's imprisonment. They were arrested for illegally crossing the boundary of the free state with firearms.

Trans-Canada Airways

Doubling Of Schedule Between Vancouver And Montreal Is Considered

Ottawa.—The Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of transport, announced that the doubling of the present Trans-Canada schedule between Vancouver and Montreal is under consideration.

This, he said, is due to more than the anticipated use of the airways by the Canadian public. It has necessitated the purchase of five new planes, bringing the total in use on the service to 15.

The minister of transport revealed that there has been a steady $10,000 a month traffic increase on the line.

Bureau Of Information Would Explain Policy Of Britain Abroad

London.—Sir Samuel Hoare told the House of Commons of plans to prepare in Great Britain a peace-time "shadow ministry of information" that would function with maximum propaganda efficiency in time of war.

This ministry, he said, would extend British culture and explain British policy abroad in time of peace. But in time of war it "would be a centre of information both at home and overseas."

The home secretary explained that this did not mean creation of a ministry of information capable of being put to use "by an unscrupulous government." In time of peace, he said, there would not be press censorship or control of public opinion.

Such a ministry would be created only in time of war and any press control then instituted would come "on the basis of co-operation between the press and the censorship department of the ministry of information."

His statement was made after he and the parliamentary under-secretary for foreign affairs Richard Butler, had asked for supplementary credits required for the propaganda department.

Sir Stanley Reed, Conservative, former editor of the Times of India, told the house that no mention was made either by Sir Samuel or Mr. Butler of the Dominions. In London, he observed, all the Dominion and colonial newspapers are represented and are vitally interested in the government's foreign publicity.

"They are literally hungry for background information which is of importance in getting information for the countries which they represent," he said. "I ask the under-secretary for foreign affairs not to exclude many of the representatives of the Dominions."

"The foreign publicity department," Mr. Butler replied, "does not apply to the empire or the colonies, but the government has the necessity of considering that great empire which has already so much knowledge of us."

He said: "The information department will only be set up in case of war, and the foreign publicity department will continue to give to the world a better picture, if possible, of Great Britain as she really is—a human country and a human people with a genuine belief in liberty."

The program of expansion for the government's information bureau, Mr. Butler revealed, included creation of "British institutes" in Athens.

Take Strong Measures To Combat Terrorist Activity In Britain

London.—Scotland Yard put Prime Minister Chamberlain and other cabinet members under special guard, held three men for examination and questioned scores in a search for terrorists following the series of five bombings.

The explosion, in which one life was lost, occurred as the House of Commons adopted drastic measures to combat the outlawed Irish Republican army.

Extraordinary precautions were in force at all railroad stations, including two where bombings occurred. The Houses of Parliament and the British Museum were objects of closest scrutiny.

Newspapers said Scotland Yard was looking for "a man with a slouch" who was believed seen at King's Cross station just before an explosion there with one and perhaps two companions.

Mr. Chamberlain told the House of Commons that "no effort will be spared to bring to justice those who are guilty of these criminal and cowardly attacks."

Police announced that 75 sticks of gelignite—the explosive used in most of the bombings—had been found attached to a pylon carrying electricity supply lines at a town near Liverpool. An alarm clock attached to the explosive was timed to go off at 1 p.m. was discovered by a farm worker at 11 a.m.

Mr. Chamberlain did not reply in the house when Sir Thomas Moore, Conservative, asked:

"Will the prime minister now consider the application of fogging for such dastardly crimes?"

Authorities said the explosions were in line with an I.R.A. "plan S" which Home Secretary Sir Samuel Salonica, Cairo, Alexandria, Malta, Lisbon and Bucharest, with a possible office in Turkey as well.

"Happenings in this country," George Strauss, Labor, said "are extremely well reported in America, and if there is a lack of sympathy between the American people and ourselves, it is not for lack of knowledge but for lack of understanding of, or sympathy with, the government's policy."

"I suggest that if we want to create that sympathy or increase it, either there should be a change in the government's policy or less news of the government's policy be put in American papers."

Mr. Butler explained to the house that the work of the foreign publicity department did not apply to the United States, since "the position in America is different from that elsewhere."

"There are so many personal contacts between our two countries and so close are our relationship due to a common sharing of the same language and ideals that methods of propaganda suitable to other parts of the world are in our view unsuitable to the American continent," he said.

Refugee Families

Party From Sudetan Area En Route To New Homes In Saskatchewan

Winnipeg.—A party of 19 refugee families from the Sudetan area of the former Czechoslovakia republic arrived here en route to establish new farm homes in the St. Walburg district of northwest Saskatchewan.

Word received in Edmonton from Ottawa said that Governor-General Lord Tweedsmuir has asked Alberta authorities to arrange for him to visit the Sudetan refugees' camp at Tupper Creek, British Columbia. Tupper Creek is located just over the British Columbia border from Alberta.

The vice-regal party will visit the Sudetan settlers while en route by automobile between Beaver Lodge and Dawson Creek, in the Peace River country, Aug. 17.

Seeking More Orders

Vancouver.—Hugh Dalton, secretary of the British Columbia division, Canadian Manufacturers' Association, is en route to England to attend conferences at which he and several other Canadian industrialists and trade experts will seek a greater share of British defence orders for the Dominion.

Hoare described to the house as calling for wrecking of key industries, blasting of parliament buildings and pollution of water supplies.

Persons leaving packages in checkrooms were asked to submit them to inspection.

William Curtin, Irish laborer, was fined 10 shillings in police court for causing a disturbance in Hyde park. Five men were seized for questioning in London and one in Liverpool.

At Victoria, crowds raised an angry shout of "down with the Irish—shoot them." They swarmed about a man who declared the Irish might be right in their demands for a unified Ireland with abolition of the separate government for the north. Police had to hustle him away.

The new anti-I.R.A. bill gives police broad search powers and provides for deportation of undesirable.

In asking for its passage, Sir Samuel asserted I.R.A. terrorism apparently was inspired by foreign organizations and timed to coincide with international crisis. "Plan S" listed vulnerable points for sabotage.

Authorities have said some 5,000 suspected I.R.A. members or sympathizers are under watch.

"Root them out!" demanded the Daily Mail.

British United Press says Prime Minister De Valera was present at the Eire senate for a statement denouncing the Irish Republican Army for terrorist acts in England. He said:

"Unfortunately the government of Eire is not in a position to remove the causes which led to the unfortunate occurrences in England. We see two sides. We know the wrong that had been done by the partition of Ireland."

NOTES AND COMMENTS

SATURDAY afternoon always has that peaceful atmosphere of rest and relaxation which is really enjoyed by those who work hard throughout the week—such as newspapermen. Don't scoff, dear friends, for its truth—at least the enjoyment part. Now this is written on a Saturday afternoon. We made up our mind to clean up various tedious details of work before departing on a short holiday. Then our thoughts began to digress on what a fine institution Saturday afternoon is the world over—almost as good as Sunday; in fact sometimes it is better, depending on the company you meet up with.

ANOTHER feature of Saturday, at least it used to be before bathtubs in every home became the rule, was the Saturday night ordeal for all the kids. In fact the city of Halifax, Nova Scotia, in keeping check on water consumption some years ago, found that it took a tremendous jump on Saturdays. Such an increase could not be attributed to mixing water with Scotch whiskey, and the city councillors came to the conclusion that most everybody in Halifax had a bath on Saturday night, and maybe a few during the week. But Saturday was the field day; probably it is the rule yet.

NOW these habits fit into a well-ordered life. With our high-powered automobiles, airplanes, jazz crooners and various other inflections of the age, one sometimes welcomes a surcease from these distractions, and longs to get away back in the woods where the songs of the birds or the howl of a coyote are a welcome change from some fellow singing of love and other mush. Of course the age of romance never ends, even an old codger is liable to do the same thing over that he did in youth, but usually there is somebody to put the brakes on any exuberance of that nature, in the shape of a reproving wife.

RETURNING TO Saturday afternoon, you can forget work, look forward to Sunday, and as Harry Lauder would sing, "Its fine to stay in bed on a Sunday morning," brings a pleasing prospect to the less energetic. With the writer, it has been the rule to get up earlier on Sunday morning because there isn't any real work to do, much to the disgust of the "missus" who hates being disturbed by early risers any day in the week. However, life has its "rosate views of early dawn, the brightness of the sky" and so on, and Saturday is indeed conducive to creating the feeling that all's well with the world. Its a real institution greatly appreciated by hardworking people, including newspapermen.

WE HAVE been interested, in fact, intrigued, by the alliance of Mr. Herridge and Premier Aberhart. Both have some fine sounding phrases, but they resemble the colors in a soap bubble—there's no substance whatever. More than four years ago the writer asked our dear premier what standard of value he would adopt to make good his non-negotiable certificates, so much in the public eye then as one of the mediums which would provide increased purchasing power without the use of money. He replied that the details of his scheme were hazy in his mind, but he would engage experts to figure out the details. One was sentenced to three months in Fort Saskatchewan jail for a most flagrant case of libel. Now we have Mr. Herridge, brother-in-law of Hon. R. B. Bennett, wedded to Mr. Aberhart in the most crack-pot theory of the age something for nothing! But why was serious about it? It appears so ridiculous. Hitler, dislike him you may, but he surely knows how to capitalize on the weak spots in human nature, and it looks as if Alberta people are looked on as guinea pigs for the hairbrain schemes of those who seek a place in the Sun for self glorification alone instead of the welfare and good of the people.

IT MAY be out of season to talk of artificial ice for winter sport, but if the proposal is to be materialized for the next season greater enthusiasm must be shown on the part of the general public. So far the business houses have signified their willingness to financially support the proposal. Considerable sentiment among the mineworkers is evident judging from casual conversation. They take the attitude that there is very little sport here during the winter, in fact none outside of that furnished by the hockey teams, and that a contribution of 25c per month from all workers, with a larger amount from business places and officials, would put the plan over quite easily. When it is remembered that we all spend several quarters on various forms of entertainment during a month, it should only require a little will to support the plan and give the necessary financial support. It is a community enterprise requiring of all, and we know of nothing which would give a better return in winter entertainment, and at the same time prove an incentive to younger people to excel in hockey and ice sports.

Artificial Ice Meeting Adjourned

The meeting of the provisional committee held on Thursday evening was adjourned till some time in August. Mack Stigler, reporting for the Miners Association, outlined the discussion which had taken place at a meeting earlier in the month, and suggested that a public meeting be called in the Community hall to lay the plan before the people in order to create further interest.

The chairman, H. T. Halliwell, and W. L. Rippon, secretary, reported on the result of the canvass among the business places, which had been very satisfactory.

A letter had also been sent to the general manager of the coal mining companies, asking for their financial support.

As the chairman and secretary of the committee will be away during half of August, it was decided to defer further action till their return, when arrangements will be made to place the proposal before the general public, and then decide if action will be taken to install artificial ice for next season's hockey and skating.

Football Team Disbands For Season

Lack of Competition is Reason
—Funds to be Placed in Trust

Lack of competition was the cause of Coleman's football team disbanding for the season at a club meeting on Thursday evening. Fernie was the only Pass team to offer any competition to the local club and it was decided that due to so little interest being taken in football this year it would be to the club's advantage to disband for the season and place the funds in a trust. J. Emmerson, D. Smith and A. Balloch were elected to take charge of the money.

It was later decided that should Fernie sponsor a sport's day September 4, Coleman club would sponsor a team and in addition to playing in the competition, should Coleman meet Fernie the game would also be played for one or more league trophies.

Here, Here, Brother!

"Its a goldarn long winter here to sit and see nothing" was the way one mineworker expressed his views on the efforts to interest the community in an artificial ice plant for winter sport. Evidently there is quite a large body of sentiment in favor of continuing the efforts to have artificial ice and assured winter sport.

It may be good business in some lines to charge "all the traffic will bear," but Grover Whalen, manager of the New York's "World of Tomorrow," is now finding out that he probably overestimated what the public would stand for when he placed the admission to his fair at 75 cents in the face of no previous world's fair ever having charged more than 50 cents or even less, for as Time points out, it looks as though Grover Whalen would soon have to cut the general admission to 50 cents a head to get enough "People of Today to patronize his World of Tomorrow." —F. Kilowatt-Hours Lighten Labor, Brighten Play

Difficult Sport

It is hard to save on your electric bill. The most expensive thing about using electricity is the cost of having the service in your home. Kilowatt-Hours are inexpensive and each one costs less the more you use. Turning out a light that adds to the appearance of your room will save only a fraction of a Kilowatt-Hour during any evening. You can hardly notice the few cents it is possible to save in a month.

Strange as it seems, you can probably save more money by using more electricity. Using an electric range, you save on coal and wood. Using an electric refrigerator, you save the ice bill. Using most electrical appliances, you raise your standard of living and save doctor and hospital bills.

Nursing-Maternity Home Meets Need in Pass Towns

Will Provide Nursing Service Under Qualified Graduate Nurse

In order to provide accommodation for cases that are not included in the regular hospital service, a nursing home has been established by Mrs. Philip L. Wagner, formerly Miss Mary Kilgannon, a graduate of Holy Cross Hospital, Calgary.

The nursing home is in quiet surroundings on Fourth Street and under the supervision of Mrs. Wagner patients will be assured of considerate and efficient treatment. Since graduating from Holy Cross in 1924, Mrs. Wagner has been on the staffs of various hospitals in the larger centres of the United States.

In establishing a nursing home here, a much needed institution is now available for the people of the Pass towns, which will be appreciated.

On Road To Fame

Edmonton Man Left Banking Job To Study Art

Llewellyn Pelly Jones, who left a banking job in Edmonton to study art, received wide acclaim for a recent London exhibition of his work. Mr. Jones has a permanent studio in London and critics say he is on the road to fame. One London newspaper, the Daily Telegraph, even compared him with Paul Cezanne, famous French painter who also turned down a career in banking to study art. "Now his fellow students call him the Canadian Cezanne," the paper's art critic wrote.

A prominent English art house conducted a 17-days exhibition of Mr. Jones' work in the London galleries June 6 to 23. Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, former Canadian prime minister, opened the review. Eighty pictures were on display, mostly of French interest. Mr. Jones studied in Paris for three years.

The painter's proud mother, Mrs. A. H. Jones, resides in the 17th avenue home in Edmonton where her son spent his childhood. He was a student at Edmonton public and high schools and after graduation went to a branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia. Three years later he quit to enter an art studio. His paintings in Edmonton exhibitions attracted wide interest and in 1935 he decided to study abroad.

After six months in England the Royal Academy of London chose his painting of Seba Beach, Edmonton, out of 10,000. The picture went on view through the British Isles and France.

The following years brought recognition from the Royal Society of British Artists, the Royal Society of Portrait Painters, the Societe Nationale de Beaux Arts and other famous art associations. His best-known pictures are Limehouse, Wenonah, Winter in Richmond and Autumn on the Seine. Some of his work hangs in the National gallery in Ottawa.

Not Very Profitable

It doesn't always pay to appeal. There is Dr. F. S. Rutland, medical health officer of Woodstock, Ont., who, getting $1,200 a year, was offered $1,500 but refused, demanding $1,600, went before a county judge and has been awarded $1,350.

Canada's Currency

Fifty-Four Million New Bills Issued By Bank of Canada Last Year

Last year about 54,000,000 new bills were issued to the public by the Bank of Canada, and more than 210,000,000 have been issued since the smaller sized bank bills came into use in 1935, according to the Dominion bureau of statistics.

That gives some idea of the number of bills required to satisfy the commercial needs of a country of over 11,000,000 population.

These bills range in value as follows: $1, $2, $5, $10, $20, $50 and $100. The authorities keep close track of the hands into which the $1,000 bills fall. It is the highest denomination issued in Canada.

There is practically no gold currency in Canada to-day and the silver dollar is comparatively rarely used. As a matter of fact Canada's monetary system has fewer units in it than the United States. A $4 bill will give a lot of trouble, for counterfeits were able to cheat the public sometimes by raising a $1 bill to a $4, so it was discontinued.

Canada used to have more silver coinage also. There was a 25-cent piece which created confusion occasionally. Silver dollars, or "cart wheels" as they were called, were used regularly.

A popular bill in years past was the 25-cent denomination. We call them "shin plasters" and know them by that name. They were very handy for maling and quite frequently even a "shin plaster" will come in a letter for some payment.

SELECTED RECIPES

JELLIED MEAT LOAF

1 tablespoon gelatine
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup stock, well seasoned
1 tablespoon minced onion
10 Christie's Premium Soda Crackers

1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1/2 cup chopped cooked meat (veal, lamb, ham, beef or chicken).

Soak gelatine in cold water five minutes. Add onion to stock, bring to boiling point and pour over soaked gelatine. Stir in crumbled crackers. Worcestershire sauce and lemon juice. Cool and add meat. Turn into loaf pan. Remove feet, mold and cut in slices for serving.

Garnish chicken loaf with chilled peas in lettuce cups with potato salad in lettuce cups; lamb loaf with mint jelly on Christie's Butter Wafers; ham loaf with potato chips and mustard pickle in tiny lettuce cups; beef loaf with pimiento strips and sliced chili pickle. Six portions. Preparation 10 minutes.

THOUSAND ISLAND DRESSING

A Courageous Woman

Madame Pierre Casgrain Protests Against Some Quebec Laws

There is no more progressive-minded woman amongst the French-Canadian than Madame Pierre Casgrain, wife of the Speaker of the House of Commons and daughter of the late Sir Rodolphe Forget. Not long ago she was brought into prominence when she was elected a director of a chain store corporation. But it is not in business that she is best known. She is an outspoken and courageous advocate of women's rights in the province of Quebec. Quebec is without the franchise for women in provincial affairs and it is backward in other respects for as women are concerned. Mrs. Casgrain's voice is constantly being heard in protest. Only recently in speaking at a meeting of women's clubs she made some caustic references to Quebec laws. She cited as instances permitting a boy of 14 and a girl of 12 to marry, but forbidding them to attend motion picture shows until they are 16.

Manitoba Has A New Highway North Of 55

Another mighty northern wilderness became the property of the North American tourist with the opening of Manitoba's first highway north of 55.

The new highway, an extension of No. 10 running north from Brandon through the popular Riding Mountain national park resort to Dauphin and Swan River, opens the thriving lumber and mining centre of The Pas.

It was an historic occasion for the northern town, two hundred years ago a Hudson's Bay Co. trading post, when engineers completed the last leg of the hundred-mile route which they carved out of a wilderness of lakes and streams, mountains and timber lands.

The time is looked forward to when the highway will be extended still further north to Manitoba's gold mining town of Flin Flon.

The provincial government now is understood to be considering the making of a new highway from the United States boundary northward through Brandon to The Pas to simplify tourist travel into the recently opened north country.

At Brandon the northland highway would cross the trans-Canada highway, now being hard-surfaced, thus making connections with Winnipeg and other western Canada centres complete.

Car Of The Future

Will Be Vastly Different From Type Used To-day

From the World Automotive Engineering Congress comes prediction that the car of the future will be a teardrop in form, not for the sorrow it causes, but for speed. It will bulge big at the front and taper to a tail at the rear. It seems that our cars nowadays are built wrong end first in shape.

The car of tomorrow will be either a "front drive engine in front," or a "rear-drive engine in the rear," figure it out.

It will be a buttoned-up affair. Door handles will disappear and give place to buttons for entrance into a roomy, modern room with light, movable seats. The roof will be translucent to let in the light, yet kill the glare.

More buttons. A button will regulate the temperature, another button condition the air another button connected to the pump out at the rear. The car can be driven from any seat; the controls may be passed from place to place, something like the remote control of the modern radio.

YOU, TOO, CAN SWIM IN EXPERT STYLE

Diving Simple To Learn

When summer swimming fun is at its height are you the fishy cat who chokes to shallow water—doesn't dare dive in?

In no time you can teach yourself popular swimming strokes, learn to dive gracefully. Here's a good way to get used to plunging in. Kneel on one knee, place other foot near the edge, as the diagram shows. With hips well back, head between arms and arms held straight in front, let head and arms fall forward and down. As you start tipping over, push out with your feet.

Easily you glide through the water, come up eager to do a real "stand up" dive. And no trick to it if you know a few pointers. Don't lift your head as you hit the water, keep head and arms down. When well into the water turn hands and head up and up you come!

Swimming strokes too, are simple. Learn how to do the Crawl, Trudgen and Side Stroke.

Our new 32-page booklet gives you complete diagrams, instructions for the American Crawl, back stroke, trudgen crawl, side stroke, Tails how to float, tread water, dive, do the racing start and turn. Safety tips for pools, lakes, rivers, ocean swimming.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "How To Be A Good Swimmer" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg.

A PERT YOUNG PRINCESS FROCK

By Anne Adams

Young and fresh as a frilly-edged corsage is this adorable young miss frock by Anne Adams. Nice of all, you can stitch up Pattern 4175 all by yourself in a jiffy. The princess lines that give the young curves are easy to sew, they eliminate wasteful sewing. The princess yoke and the long center panel may be cut on the bias. Or, you might bias-cut the front and back-side panels, that give such extra swishy fullness to the skirt. Make the sleeves with wide slashed openings or seamed up, and leave the neckline round and simple. But go gay on ruffle trim for the dressier version—use it lavishly as yoke, sleeves and peek-a-boo hemline.

Pattern 4175 is available in junior and misses' sizes 10-18; bust, 28-38. Size 14 takes 4 yards 39 inch fabric and 7 yards lace edging.

Send twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly Size, Name, Address and Style Number and send order to the Anne Adams Pattern Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg.

British Shipyards Busy

Other Nations Know Where Best Ships Are Built

John Bull builds the best ships in the world and other nations know it. Even at the present time, says the Brockville Recorder and Times, when various British yards are busy on orders for naval account, the shipbuilding industry is able to say that it is working on fully 40 vessels of various types for foreign countries. They include destroyers, submarines, minelayers, cargo motorships, motor tankers, heavy cruisers, whalers, tugs, dredgers and motor torpedo boats.

Clyde yards are building two motor tankers of 15,000 tons deadweight each for Continental owners, two destroyers for Turkey, and five destroyers, three for the Soviet government and one each for Greece and Iraq. Elsewhere in Scotland work is proceeding on a tanker of 12,600 tons deadweight for Scandinavian account and a trawler for Norway.

In England, the northeast coast is the busiest district so far as foreign contracts are concerned, the yards there having nine orders in hand. Seven of these vessels—four whalers, two motor tankers and a cargo motorship—are for Norway, the other two being a steam collier for France and a cargo motorship for Greece.

Other shipyards in England are engaged upon six destroyers for Brazil, two destroyers, four submarines and two minelayers for Turkey, a salvage tug for Sweden, a fire-float for Persia, and a number of fast motor torpedo boats for various foreign governments.

British shipyards have had their difficulties, but the recognized quality of their output is now responsible for a marked revival of the industry.

ELIJAH: A LIFE OF COURAGE

Golden text: The Lord is far from the wicked; but he heareth the prayer of the righteous. Proverbs 15:29.
Lesson: 1 Kings 18:1-46.
Devotional readings: Ephesians 6:10-20.

Explanations and Comments
Elijah Meeting with Ahab, 1 Kings 18:1-24. After three years of severe famine in Samaria, because of the drought Ahab called Obadiah, his superintendent, and told him to go in search of water for their perishing horses and mules. He was met by Elijah, who ordered him to inform Ahab that rain was coming. Ahab came to meet Elijah. "Thou troubler of Israel!" were the king's angry words of greeting. Boldly Elijah retorted that the king was the real troublemaker, for he had forsaken the commandments of the Lord and had followed the gods of the heathen. Then Elijah ordered Ahab to assemble on Mount Carmel all the priests of Baal and of the Asherah and Ahab's bidding.

Elijah Flings Out His Challenge, 1 Kings 18:21-24. To the people as well as to the priests of Baal, Elijah sternly said: "How long are you limping between the two sides? I am here, and the Lord God is here. There are four hundred and fifty prophets of Baal. We will have a test. Let two bullocks be brought and let the priests of Baal prepare one for sacrifice and I will prepare the other; then call on your God and I will call on Jehovah, and the God that answers by fire, let him be God." The people approved.

The Vain Efforts of the Priests of Baal, 1 Kings 18:25-29. They prepared their sacrifice, and from morning till noon they cried, "O Baal, hear us," and leaped about the altar, but there was no response. Dancing acrobatics, and every bodily contortions were customary at heathen sacrifices. At noon Elijah mocked them: "Cry aloud, for your god is here, meditating, or has gone on a journey, or is asleep."

The Test of the Test, 1 Kings 18:30-39. The fire of Jehovah fell, and consumed offering, wood, stones, dust and water.

Great Pianist Was Kindly Remembered People Who Helped Him To Succeed

The New York Times tells this story: In Paderewski's struggling days a certain well known altruistic Chicago sponsored his concerts and he became a frequent guest in their home. Years later, when the great Polish pianist had come into world fame, he remembered the hospitality of his Chicago friends. Learning of their financial straits, who was by that time 82 years of age, was spending the winter in Florida and at a place not far from where he was to give one of his concerts, he arrived at her home to her surprise and after the concert. When told that she had "listened in" by radio, Paderewski said that he had come to play the concert for her. As the visit is described by her: "He went into the drawing room, opened the French windows upon the terrace and played the entire concert" for this friend of his early days—another instance of the chivalry of a musician who has evoked a symphony of praise more wonderful even than his skill has played.

Caring For Indians
Tons of Medical and Surgical Supplies Sent To Northland

By canoe, aeroplane and packtrain, Indians in Canada's northland have been shipped more than 16 tons of medical and surgical supplies during the spring and early summer.

The Indian affairs branch of the department of mines and resources announced. From the Yukon to Labrador, the health of 18,000 Indians is looked after by the Dominion government. There are hospitals at Ile a la Croix in the Mackenzie River basin, at Moose Factory and Fort Albany on James Bay, but over most of that vast area Indian medical needs are served by missionaries, Royal Canadian Mounted Police, traders and missionaries helped by the government and the churches.

Turkeys Go Modern

A turkey that will fit in modern ovens and ice-boxes without crumpling was exhibited at the Seventh World's Poultry Congress held in Cleveland, Ohio. The display, part of the U.S. Government exhibit, included two live, small-type white turkeys, a young tom and a young hen.

The modern turkey is in keeping with the growing demand for small turkeys which in the market usually bring a premium of from one to five cents a pound over larger ones.

TEACH CHILDREN HOW TO SAVE LIVES

A timely article in "Health," official publication of the Health League of Canada, which has been campaigning for a wider knowledge of artificial respiration methods, is contributed by Wills Macdonald, of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission. In this article he says:

"The Schafer method of artificial respiration is sometimes known by someone about watering places and bathing houses. It is of all methods the most satisfactory. It is so simple that it should be familiar to everyone. It is recommended that senior pupils in the schools, both boys and girls, should be taught to practice it. Knowledge of the kind will soon, later prove to be a life saver. Employees of public utilities practice it regularly at least once a month. It may be successful even when there has been no perceptible pulse, or other signs of life, for several hours. After the patient has started to breathe, it will be necessary to transport him in a lying position to his home or to a hospital so that he may be put to bed. He must not be allowed to sit up, stand or walk. He should be transported in a lying down position. Experience has taught that under such circumstances the heart is in no condition to stand the strain of sitting up and that in the past, lives have been lost where the persons have been allowed to stand or walk. In bed, the patient should be treated as for surgical shock—that is, by the use of warmth, quiet and the necessary stimulants.

To summarize:
1. Remove the victim from electrical contact, gas or water, as quickly as possible.
2. Start artificial respiration by mouth-to-mouth, as promptly as possible.
3. Use warmth. Hot water bottles, etc., to keep the body warm.
4. Do not stop artificial respiration until the patient breathes or there are definite signs of recovery.

5. Transport the patient in a lying position to home or hospital and put to bed.
As a final word let me repeat that in cases of electric gas or water poisoning and apparent drowning, artificial respiration by means of the Schafer method is of all methods the simplest and best. Diligently and persistently carried out, it will save the lives of many persons who otherwise would be lost. The method should be learned by everyone. Knowledge of it will save many lives."

Premier Bracken Of Manitoba Urges Farmers To Work Together

Premier Bracken of Manitoba in an address to 400 farmers at the Dominion Experimental Farm at Charlottetown urged farmers to work together and with the experimental stations—"research laboratories"—to solve their problems.

Mr. Bracken told the farmers' meeting held in conjunction with the Charlottetown Confederation celebration, that he believed agriculturalists throughout the Dominion could make a living without disturbing their neighbors. If Western Canada areas turned from export crops to dairying they would be in direct competition with the East.

The crust offered good footing and with snowshoes on the sled and with what strength remained in their uncertain legs Noel and Alan followed the dog over the river ice up the valley.

Turning in shore at the water hole in the ice they followed a beaten trail back into the timber.

"Something ver' strange here," said the puzzled Indian, shaking his hooded head. "Dis ees no Montagnais camp. Were are de dog sign?"

"No, there are no signs of dogs, no signs of—well, look at that!"

"By gar, white men on de Talking River!"

Standing beside the husky whose throat rumbled as he suspiciously sniffed the air while the hair of his mane and back slowly rose, Alan and Noel gazed in amazement at the substantial log building, banked high with snow, which stood in the centre of the clearing that opened before them.

"White men on the Talking River!" Alan repeated, his curious eyes noting the size of the log cabin with its large mud-plastered chimney, the huge platform cache evidently piled with supplies which were covered by canvas, the two pairs of snowshoes and the toboggan sled stuck in the snow beside the door, and close by, the ample remains of what had evidently been an enormous wood-pile in the autumn.

Dizzy from weakness Alan started for the cabin. Reaching the slab door he struck it with his mittened hand and called out: "Hello! Hello there, inside!"

For answer the door slowly swung in and the two pinched faces in the hoods stared into the black muzzle of an automatic pistol. Hunched behind the pistol stood a bearded giant of a man whose ice-blue eyes glittered hostilely beneath a livid scar that gouged his forehead.

In all the wide north, starving men were not greeted in this fashion. Alan Cameron's hollow eyes flamed with anger as he met the cold stare that probed him.

"You don't need that gun," he rasped. "We've starved out. Our traplines are up on the Mad River. We trade at Fort George. A volurine got into our cache and destroyed every bit of fish and flour we had."

The threat slowly faded from the cold eyes and the gun went back to its holster. "Starved out, eh? You look it!"

"We were on our way to the Sinking Lakes to find the Montagnais."

"Well, you'd have been out of luck if you hadn't struck this place. There are no hunters on the Sinking Lakes this winter."

Alan and Noel exchanged perplexed glances.

"Now, boys," continued the giant, "I've got some caribou stew in the kettle that'll wipe that hungry look off your faces. Come in!"

"My dog, here," said Alan, "you'll give him something, too?"

"There's plenty of stew for you all. Unhitch him and bring him in!"

Dropping to his knees beside Rough, as he threw off his collar and belly-band, Alan whispered into a hairy ear: "You hear that, Rough? No more tough wolf! Stew! Dear stew for the big dog!"

"Drop your coats and moccasins and make yourselves cozy, boys," said their host, as the two starved men sucked in the appetizing odors emanating from a huge copper kettle, perched on a sheet-iron folding stool, which stood at the side of the clay-plastered fireplace. The giant filled two aluminum cups and a pad from the kettle. "You'll get just one cup apiece now. It'll knock you out, if you hog it in your condition. I guess the dog can stand a panful."

The speaker placed a dish, cooled with a handful of snow, before the ravenous husky, dropped some snow into the cups and handed them to Alan and Noel.

"Steady, boys—not all at once!" he warned, as the two feverishly drank the nourishing and palatable broth.

"We've been living on wolf the last week—what there was of it," said Alan. "I got two but they were like rawhide—no strength in them."

"Timber wolves?"

"No, white Arctic wolves."

"That explains it—hunting south for the caribou, and most of the deer have moved east out of this country."

"That's why the Montagnais did not winter on the Sinking Lakes," nodded Alan.

Seated on a chair made of split spruce slabs, Alan threw curious glances about the interior of the cabin while the big, yellow-haired man offered Noel a plug of smoking tobacco and cut fillings for the huge pipe he held in his hand. The spruce log walls were carefully chinked with moss plastered with mud. Two small windows made of caribou parchment through which the last rays of the sun shined, entered were added in lighting the room by a large candle set in a horn stick. On a wall a pair of caribou antlers held three rifles, while from their brown thongs hung two belts with sheathed skinning knives.

Built into a corner of the room was a double-decked bunk, matted with spruce boughs and covered with Hudson's Bay blankets and dressed caribou and bear skins. Near the bunk a ladder of spruce poles reached to a trapdoor in the loft over the main room, and, at the end of the room, for the chimney was on the side of the building, a closed slab door, hung on rawhide hinges, communicated with a second room.

These details the quick eyes of Alan covered with a glance. The glancing of his stomach was forgotten in his amazement at finding a permanent camp, which no man could build alone, on the headwaters of the Big River—on the frontiers of the unknown interior of Ungava.

Who was this man and where were the others? For what were they here?

As the giant turned to him when he had lit Noel's pipe and his own, Alan pleaded: "Just one more cup of that stew!"

"No, more, no!" was the answer. "I'm boss here! Lie down, you two, and get some rest like the dog there. He's asleep already."

"Once we must drink?" teased Noel.

"No, not a mouthful!" The bearded man lifted a big hand in a gesture of refusal. "In an hour you'll have more. Then, when you get some strength, we'll talk. You're weak as rabbits now."

So Alan and Noel stretched upon the lower section of the slab and almost immediately the warmth of the cabin and the food in their stomach brought sleep.

CHAPTER II.

An hour later Alan and Noel rose from the bunk, their drawn faces beaming at the thought of food. Smacking their cracked lips, they drank the nourishing liquid and asked for more.

"No, not yet!" refused their host. "It won't do to eat too fast. When did you lose your grub?"

"We left our camp ten days ago, with three rabbits."

The color eyes softened. "Tough!" Then Alan suddenly demanded: "Rough?"

"He's out by the sled. Call him."

Alan opened the door and the husky limped stiffly inside, emptied the pan offered him and sprawled on the floor with a contented grunt.

"Mind telling me where you got that dog?" asked McCord.

"I got him as a pup from a north coast Eskimo."

"He's a beauty," said the man with the scar, admiring the massive head with its black and white markings, the great frame, with white chest and socks.

"Since we're going to see something of each other before you head for home," went on the giant, "what's your name?"

"Alan Cameron. My father was factor at Fort George. My partner's name is Noel Leloup."

The big man extended a calloused hand to each of the boys. "My name is John McCord. Welcome to Castle McCord!" he added with a laugh.

Alan's mind was busy with the mystery of how this yellow-haired giant had found his way to the Talking River whose headwater takes lie on the frontier of an unknown country. Who was he? Why did he come? Where were his men and dogs?

The cups and pan were shortly filled again. Then, lighting his pipe, McCord observed, "Worst tangle of lakes I ever saw—the head water country of these big rivers!"

"How did you get here?" The gray eyes of Cameron met the sudden scrutiny in the cold stare of his host.

"That's a fair question," admitted the latter, after an interval, the glitter slowly fading from his ice-blue eyes. "I came in from Rupert House with two canoes and six Indians. Some of my dogs were drowned in October on the young ice. My men took the rest and went to East Main for more."

"From Rupert House?" Alan and Noel exchanged puzzled looks.

"Yes, it took all summer. We were lost half the time. But we finally picked up a Montagnais who knew the portages to the Sinking Lakes. So here I am."

Alan's suspicions, aroused by their hostile reception, were fast fading under McCord's seeming frankness. But whom had McCord feared when he opened the door? Whom did he expect to meet here in the solitudes of the Talking River country? From the appearance of the cache he had plenty of supplies and men working for him.

"You know where you are?" asked Alan. "On the edge of an unknown wilderness. No hunter knows what lies beyond the Sinking Lakes. The Montagnais will not cross the divide."

The bearded man threw back his head with a great laugh. "I suppose there are evil spirits there, too, and giant Windigo who eat men alive?"

"Into the dark eyes of Noel stole a look of uneasiness. Among his people belief in the supernatural was universal and to them the unknown heart of Ungava had, for generations, been a taboos land, the home of demons."

Dwarf Stars

Strange Phenomena Is Discovered By New Telescopes

Remarkable discoveries of new telescopes, 18 dwarf stars, which are masses of fire compressed until the flames are thousands of times heavier than steel, were described to a conference on astrophysics.

New facts about these strange objects were reported by Dr. P. K. Kulper, associate professor of astronomy, University of Chicago.

The dwarf stars range in size from that of the earth down to the moon. But each of them is from 150,000 to 800,000 times heavier than the earth.

Their gravitational pull is so immense that the flames from their surface are only a few feet high. On the sun, by way of understanding how grotesque this is, flames leap up 500,000 miles high. Yet the sun is only half as hot on the surface as the average dwarf star.

Lady From Edinburgh Travels To Baker Lake In Far North To Become Bride

Miss Jean Warren Stephen, Scottish lass, arrived at Churchill, en route from Edinburgh, Scotland to a Hudson's Bay Company post at Baker Lake in the sub-Arctic vastness 500 miles north of this northern grain port on the shores of Hudson Bay.

When she arrives at the far-northern outpost, the Scottish lass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Stephen of Edinburgh, will become the bride of Peter Dalrymple, post manager at Baker Lake. Her husband-to-be is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Dalrymple, Middlethian, Scotland.

Miss Stephen plans to remain at Baker Lake for two years before coming out for a holiday.

Woman Keeps Spiders For The Gosamer Threads They Produce

With actions as quick as the scurrying of the 200 spiders she nurses and pets, Miss Mary Pfeiffer began her 31st year recently as a spider of the gosamer threads spun by her charges.

Her nimble fingers followed swiftly the web-spinning of one spider after another, spooling the silk with brisk efficiency.

It's the "spider lady's" job to secure gosamer for insertion, in the diaphragms of surveying telescopes. Her 50th year with the Keuffel and Esser plant at Hoboken, N.J., was completed and she was given a golden jubilee dinner by fellow employees and the company's board of directors.

Miss Pfeiffer is proud of her work, which includes the acquisition of the spiders, making them spin, spooling the thread as fast they spin it, and inserting the filament in the diaphragms of the instruments.

A spry, bespectacled woman, Miss Pfeiffer says her charges are captured in fields, harned in pig-sties because they spin the finest, yet strongest and most elastic silk.

Miss Pfeiffer obtains the silk by releasing one spider at a time from a community cage and allowing it to holt for a window. Sometimes the spider sees it's being followed and quits cold. A more co-operative one replaces it.

Women Aviators

Nearly Twice As Numerous In U.S. As They Were Two Or Three Years Ago

Women aviators—as odd as 61 and as young as 16—are nearly twice as numerous in the United States as they were 2½ years ago.

The number holding licenses has jumped from 444 to 761 since February, 1937. In addition, there are 10 girl flyers in Hawaii, Puerto Rico and Alaska. The women fly big and little ships. Three are licensed to pilot gliders.

Most of them fly for fun, records at the Civil Aeronautics Authority show.

Although there are no women airline pilots at present, 70 have down the 200 solo hours required for a commercial or transport license. Another 27 hold the 60-hour limited commercial licenses, which allow them to do charter business.

The women flyers range from grandmothers who dropped their knitting needles to take bold of the "stick" to debutantes who wedge their flyers into fun-filled days.

The oldest woman pilot recorded is Edith Clark, 61, of Porterville, Cal.

Fight With Sharks

Three Men Had Narrow Escape In Fishing Boat Off Scotland

Three men had narrow escapes when a school of 50 hanking sharks surrounded their boat and one of the sharks hurled the boat out of the water, off Penllyn, six miles from Campbelltown, Argyllshire, Scotland.

Blinded by water, Hugh Cameron, the owner, clung to the wheel, and brought the boat back to an even keel. Struggling to beat the sharks, the three men managed to reach land.

"We had not got far out when the Maggie (their motor-fishing boat) was surrounded by sharks—40 or 50 of them," Cameron said.

"Suddenly a fin appeared right in front of us, and I saw a shark rising to the surface underneath the boat. I could have touched it with my hand. I swung the Maggie round, but the propeller was struck by the shark, and we were flung out of the water."

Changing Eating Habits

English People Gradually Dropping Practice Of Large Meat Meals

P. A. Francis of Ruislip, near London, arrived at Quebec in the liner Empress of Australia with the word that the Mother Country's eating trend is away from the time-honored roast beef. Mr. Francis was en route to Cleveland to represent the British Government at the world poultry congress.

"In the Old Country we are turning more and more to light meals, salads, eggs and greens," he told reporters. "Gradually the population is dropping the practice of large daily meat meals."

He explained that no one wants to eat heavily when he has to spend the day at a desk or in a factory. Mr. Francis said the change has created an improved market for imported poultry. Canada figures largely in the supply, but her sales could be expanded.

England imports 60 per cent. of the eggs consumed and 30 per cent. of the poultry, he said. Canada supplies a large amount of poultry, but is faced with Danish competition in the egg market.
